

Blissful Beach Life

AT THE NEW SIROKO BEACH MARBELLA

We are extremely privileged to have so many fantastic beach clubs on the southern coast of Spain. From super clubs that have become world famous to more rustic chiringuitos serving sardines on skewers, we are spoilt for choice when it comes to choosing a venue to spend the day at the beach.

This summer, there has been a new beach club in town, situated on one of the Costa del Sol's most naturally beautiful beaches. The new Siroko Beach Marbella, just east of Marbella and directly down on the beach from the main highway near Andalucía Lab, opened its doors in the height of summer and was immediately a hit with locals and holidaymakers alike due to its impressive Mediterranean menu and contemporary-chic décor.

The restaurant was totally reformed by Argentinean owners Carla and Francis Malfatto with the help of local architect Ismael Mérida, and a few of their friends and family. Inside, the large open-plan restaurant is airy and bright with oversized wooden lampshades looming over large cream dining tables made of recycled wood. The wooden decking throughout the restaurant has Moroccan rugs placed all around, giving the restaurant a truly "Ibiza-style" feel.

Outside at the entrance you can dine or enjoy a drink looking out onto the beach with its stunning views over the Mediterranean Sea, which is just a stone's throw away. The chill-out garden lounge at the rear of the restaurant is an interesting feature and not commonplace for a beach restaurant, but it is popular with visitors seeking some respite from the hubbub of the beach.

You can refresh yourself with a drink from their extensive bar menu, including a cocktail or a glass of one of their many Spanish wines on offer; and, if you want to dine, there are plenty of fresh salads and fish, meat and rice dishes as well as homemade desserts to choose from. The dishes are all beautifully presented on the plate and offered at very competitive prices.

Siroko Beach has sunbeds on the beach, including a towel, drink and waiter service for just €7.50, providing luxury at great value. What is more, there is a resident DJ playing upbeat tunes in the background to create the perfect beach atmosphere. Siroko Beach is a must-visit as it has something for everyone. The balance of good quality food in a sophisticated yet laidback environment makes this beach club quite special.
